

What are we looking for?

Patents Team

Someone willing to:

- work as part of a professional team, keep up-to-date with technology learn new skills, and can cope with routine work.

With academic qualifications in:

- Biotechnology (biochemistry, microbiology, genetics, molecular biology)
- Engineering (mechanical, electrical, chemical, computer and product design)
- Chemistry (organic and inorganic), or
- Telecommunications.

You will have:

- strong communication skills, critical thinking skills an eye for detail, and enthusiasm for your technology area.

Trade Marks Team

We are looking for people who have skills in researching, interpreting, analysing and evaluating information. Demonstrated verbal and written communication skills are important. The ability to work with a diverse range of people, identify work group priorities and the desire to work towards team goals are also important to perform well in the role.

Experience in a role applying legislation or applying your understanding of Intellectual Property law and its impact on a country's' economy would be an advantage but is not essential.