

Connect your software to the IPONZ System

18 August 2015

IPONZ offers a range of APIs (Application Programming Interfaces) that allow you to build software that connects directly to the IPONZ system.

APIs create a secure connection between different software and services so they can be accessed through one interface. Instead of having to manually copy information and documents, you can use an API to automatically pull it into the system you're using, or you can submit information directly to IPONZ without needing to use the website.
